

Gan Anavim Classroom Museum

As part of our museum study in the first semester, children curated their own classroom museum. After doing research at the Museum of Natural History and the U.S. Botanic Gardens where they learned about labeling and lighting and organizing collections, they curated the classroom museum with objects they found on the playground throughout the year, shells, rocks and mineral, and items from beach vacations.